A Nicht Wi' Burns.

The St. Andrew's Society of Prince Albert, held a banquet in the Queen's Hotel on Friday evening last the 25th inst, in honor of Scotland's national poet; Robert Burns. The dining hall and other parts of the hotel were profusely decorated for the occasion. Mottoes reminding us of auld Scotland were tastefully displayed such as "Here's a health bonnie Scotland to thee," "A nicht wi' Burns," "Scotland for ever," "Lass gin ye lo'e me tell me noo," and others equally suggestive of the land o' cakes. Some of these mottoes were evidently gifts of those who admired Scotland but were not conversant with its literature as the spelling was a little astray; but the kind regard for Scotland ought to make us overlook these minor points. The secretary read letters from Hon. Judge McGuire and Mr. M. W. Traill, expressing their regret that on account of other engagements they were unable to attend. An ample spread graced the table of various good things in the style of a la Scotia. Such as first and foremost Haggis, "Great chieftain of the puddin' race," together with all sorts of unmentionable things, hard to enumerate but all very good to eat. Grace having been said by the Rev. Mr. Rochester, the company fell to and did ample justice to the mercies set before them. Shortly after the ceremony of introducing the haggis was performed by the entrance of two pipers in advance, followed by the pursuivant bearing the haggis on a trencher; the procession marched twice around the table and then the dish was gracefully deposited in front of the President. Capt. Craig then pronounced Burns' address to the Haggis in a very graceful manner. Each person then around the table was served with a portion of Scotland's favorite dish. Dinner being disposed of, toasts, speeches and songs were then produced in succession. Toasts were given first to the Queen and Royal family, to the Army and Navy, the Governor-General, Lieut.-Governor and Houses of Parliament and various others too numerous to mention. The first song of the evening was "Robin Tamson's Smiddy," delivered in true Scotch style by Mr. James Sanderson. This was followed by songs from Mr. Gray and Bobbie Thompson. Also speeches from Rev. Mr. Rochester, Rev. Mr. Moore and Rev. Archdeacon Winter. Scotch recitations were also given by Messrs. Young and Jackson. After which songs were given by Mr. Westwood and Mr. Sanderson, together with speeches from Mr Galbraith, Dr. Stewart, Dr. Reid, Mr. W. R. Gunn. These speeches and songs were interspersed with selections from the bagpipes. Speeches were also made by Messrs. Macdowall and Betts. The song "Weel may the Keel row" was finely sung by Mr. Gray. Bobbie Thompson also sung "My Nannie's awa," which was rendered to perfection.

The sword dance was also finely performed by Mr. Barron. There were so many fine things said and done that it is nearly impossible to enumerate them all, but the whole thing passed of in a very agreeable manner. It was really a fine sample of a true Scotchman's dinner.

Everything passed off very quietly and orderly and although the St. Andrew's society would not furnish any liquor to the entertainment there was no restraint for anyone who chose to have it to purchase it for themselves. By this means some had it at the table, but we are thankful to say that we did not see anyone taking it to excess, and there was no sign of anyone being under its influence with the exception of one individual who had a little too much before he came to the entertainment. Towards the end he became somewhat noisy and seemed bent on tooting his own horn, when a happy thought struck one of the pipers, who straightway brought the bagpipes in full blast upon the scene which effectually shut off the would be orators garrulous talk.

This struck me as a grand idea which might be well employed on various occasion. It would be a grand plan to have a piper or two in readiness, at, say any political meeting or any place where an undesirable individual wished to blow off his superfluous talk upon an unwilling audience. It would be a good thing at such a time to have a piper on hand to stop the orator, which would be a great improvement upon the usual method of howling, hissing, cat calls and groaning which is so vulgar, to supplant it by "The Campbell's are coming" or "The Haughs o' Cromdale." At the conclusion of the meeting a vote of thanks was proposed to the host and hostess which was responded to in a graceful manner by Mr. Hobbs. The meeting then separated.

YOUNG LIBERALS MEET.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the above Association was held at Forester's Hall on Monday evening the 21st inst.

There was a large attendance of members and visitors and great enthusiasm prevailed.

A debate on the relative merits of the United States and Canada as fields for emigration formed a most interesting part of the programme. The interests of Canada was championed by Mr. Jack McLeod, while the star spang'ed banner was waved by Alex. Stephen.

The honors were about equally divided between the two youthful debaters, the ability displayed by each of them being a source of surprise to the older members.

The programme further consisted of songs and speeches the most notable being Mr. F. A. Sinclair's song and Mr. W. R. Gunn's speech.

After the remarks of the critic the proceedings terminated the hour being very late.

The unanimous verdict of those present being that the pleasantest place you can spend an evening in Prince Albert is with the "Young Libs."

RIGHTEOUS INDIGNATION.

Aunt Sarah Felt as If She Had Lost Her Wings.

Not long since, says the Washington Post, an old colored auntie came to the capital from a small town in Virginia to cook for a gentleman who had known what an expert she was in preparing toothsome dishes since his boyhood. The employer was on the sporting order, and knowing the old woman to be of a deeply religious nature, he took care to keep her in ignorance of the fact that she was to provide meals for a festive club where draw poker was the nightly programme.

For a few days things went on swimmingly. The habitues of the place praised the cooking to the skies, but their good living was not to last. Aunt Sarah discovered by accident that the people whose palates she was pleasing were an irreligious lot, and that they were habitual card players. The discovery appalled her. Rushing into the room where a dozen men were intent on a jack-pot she shouted:

"I'm goin' right back home. You kin git another cook dis very day, Marse Jim. I feel jest like you had taken my wings from me so I can't never fly to Heaven. All de money in Washington couldn't keep dis old woman in dis sinful place."

The very next train on the Virginia Midland numbered Aunt Sarah among its passengers.

American Pearls.

Pearl mussels are often found in the upper Mississippi and in rivers flowing to the lakes, but whenever a pearl is discovered in any locality all the mussels in the stream are immediately destroyed by persons in search of others. If the search were systematically conducted, as is done in some parts of Germany, pearl fishery might become an important industry in this country. In Germany the streams are carefully preserved and are fished for pearls only once in ten or fifteen years. The shells of mussels picked out of the river are carefully opened with a pair of pincers made for the purpose, and if no pearl is found then the mussels are replaced in the water. By means of such a system as this the annual find of pearls in the Germah empire exceeds $250,000 every year.

STATE EXHIBITS.

One of the Most Interesting Features of the World's Fair.

To an American one of the most interesting features of the world's fair of 1893, as it was also of the centennial exhibition of 1876, will be the exhibit made of the respective states of the union. Every state is likely to make an appropriation to set forth its own peculiar products, and most of the states will be represented by special buildings or pavilions, each of which will in its construction and in its contents be characteristic of the state which erects it.

At the centennial exhibition, says the Youth's Companion, thirty-seven states were represented in one way or another, for though Colorado was admitted to the union in 1876, and is therefore called the centennial state, it was not admitted in season to place it among the states which were represented at Philadelphia.

At the world's fair of 1893 at Chicago at least forty-four states will be represented; perhaps the number will be larger.

There is so much diversity among the states that no two pavilions and no two exhibits need be alike if each is thoroughly characteristic of the state. Though Massachusetts and Connecticut

PRINCE ALBERT, JAN. 29, 1895.

Some time ago there was some little spleen exhibited because this office had got the sale of lands for taxes to print; forgetting that when this office received the contract for the work there was no other printing office existent in the town of Prince Albert. But supposing there was it did not make any difference as there was nothing lost to the town by the transaction, it was simply money paid for value received. But it will be recollected that last fall a car of agricultural produce was sent from this place for exhibition in the Eastern Provinces. When the matter of electing a man to be put in charge of said car, Mr. David our present mayor, was then on the council board, and happened to commit the unpardonable sin of voting against the majority in the selection of a man to send with the car. Mr. Davis very naturally wished to put a practical agriculturist in charge, but was overruled. This might have passed off without further comment, had not the appointee shown a spirit of rancour to Mr. Davis ever since that time. But it may be asked what benefit did either the town or surrounding country derive from the appointment made at that time. This gentleman we are told received somewhere between three and four hundred dollars for his trip and there is no doubt but with such a salary he had a good time, but what return had the ratepayers for the money spent. In the matter of the book printing there was value received for the money spent; but a question arises as to the merits of the case of placing a man in charge who was to show for the money paid out. We are not aware that they made any complaint to that of the Commons.

The London banks had to reduce their New Year's dividends on account of the slowness of business. The fact is submitted for the consideration of Canadian free trade editors. It is not the N.P. that hurts England; but what can it be?

The Victoria, Australia, ministry has been defeated, by the votes of the Labor party in the Legislature, who objected to a measure reducing the payment to members. The labor economists are much like other selfish economy advocates. They like the saving to be made at other people's expense.

John Burns, M.P., on his return to London, said the American capitalist was an enlarged and offensively glorified edition of his English replica. The American capitalist would probably retort that Mr Burns is an enlarged and offensively glorified edition of the United States labor boss.

The renomination by the Conservatives of South Grenville, Ontario, of the sitting member, Mr. J. D. Reid, is really tantamount to an election. Mr. Reid, who is manager of the Edwardsburg Starch works, at Cardinal, and also an extensive farmer, has proved himself a most useful representative, diligent in the service of his constituency, and exceedingly popular with his colleagues in the Commons. He is still a young man, barely thirty years of age, is possessed of excellent judgment and fine business capacity; and may be regarded as having before him a long career of successful public life.

The Duke of Norfolk has become an English county councillor, and the list of parish councillors includes the Marchioness of Londonderry and the Countess of Warwick. There seems to be a risk that it will become fashionable to discharge municipal functions in England, which will considerably non plus certain Radical advocates of the laws that created the new council. Perhaps it will be as well for the dukes to leave the posts in a house of their own. If turned out of their place in the nobleman's they might be compelled to take that of the Commons.

The pupils of the New York schools have formed an anti cigarette league, which now numbers 25,000 members. The ages of these juvenile followers of King James run from 10 to 15, the years between which the temptation to imitate the practices of older persons is strongest in a boy. The institution should do good work, more especially as the members will surely end their days before they have had time to become inveterate smokers.

And now if it is to be also the root of disease it is better to discard it altogether. Any person therefore having money in their possession and feeling any way timid over the matter, can get rid of it by depositing the same with us until the panic blows. We are not at all afraid of money.

Deaf for a Year
Caused by
Catarrh in the Head

Catarrh is a CONSTITUTIONAL disease, and requires a CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY like Hood's Sarsaparilla to cure it. Read:

"Three years ago, as a result of catarrh, I entirely lost my hearing and was deaf for more than a year. I tried various things to cure it, and had several physicians attempt it, but no improvement was noticed. I could distinguish no sound. I was intending putting myself under the care of a specialist when I was encouraged to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Would you believe it, before I had taken it without the expectation of any lasting benefit, my hearing was restored. I found when I had taken three bottles that my hearing was returning. I kept on till I had taken three bottles. It is now over a year and I can hear perfectly well. I am troubled but very little with the catarrh. I consider this a remarkable case, and cordially recommend

HOW IS THIS?

Something new even in these days of magnificent premium offers, it is the latest effort of Stafford's Magazine, a New York monthly of home and general reading.

The proposition is to send the Magazine one year for one dollar, the regular subscription price, and in addition to send each subscriber fifty-two complete novels during the twelve months; one each week.

Think of it. You receive a new and complete novel, by mail, post paid, every week for fifty-two weeks, and in addition you get the magazine once a month for twelve months, all for one dollar. It is an offer which the publishers can only afford to make in the confident expectation of getting a hundred thousand new subscribers. Among the authors of the coming series are Wilkie Collins, Walter Besant, Mrs. Oliphant, Mary Cecil Hay, Florence Marryat, Anthony Trollope, A. Conan Doyle, Miss Braddon, Captain Marryat, Miss Thackeray and Jules Verne. If you wish to take advantage of this unusual opportunity send one dollar for Stafford's Magazine one year. Your first issue, the magazine and your first number of the fifty-two novels (one each week) which you are to receive during the year will be sent you by return mail. Remit by P.O. The greatest papers in Great Britain and the United States freely acknowledge the wonderful merit of the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal. The Family Herald is a great newspaper and a great family paper, but it is more than that, it is one of the greatest authorities in the world on cheese, butter, general dairying, and general farming. Howland, M.P.P., gives an interesting article entitled "The Fourth Century of Canadian History." G. Mercer Adam discusses charmingly British Novelists and Novelists of the Last Quarter of a Century. Frank Blake of Toronto Observatory, speculates on the Condition of Mars and Jupiter now prominent of jects of the heavens. The aged Mrs. Traill so familiar long ago, from her charming descriptions of backwoods' life in Canada and as one of the brilliant sisterhood of the Strickland dwells in "An Indian Maiden's Grave" on a pathetic story of Central Ontario. M.A. Leah Wright contributes a valuable paper on "Decorative Needle Work," and J. E. Wetherel, in a full, impartial, and appreciative style, criticizes F. G. Scott's new book of poems. The illustrated articles are, a prose poem, "In the Land of Shadows," by Keppell Strange; "Behind the Rolling Desk," by Thomas O'Hagan; "The Royal Military College," illustrated by Frederic Fate; "How I Killed my First Moose," an article which every sportsman will appreciate, by C. H. Goodeham; and "The Canadian Themistocles" an article in which W. F. Maclean, M.P., with a bold hand, draws a remarkable parallel of the character and methods of Sir John Macdonald and the celebrated Grecian statesman. "Crumbs," by H. Cameron Nellor Wilson, and "My Double Self," a strange story of a man attending his own funeral, by R. F. Dixon, conclude the contributions to fiction. "Where Thames Widen," by Keppell Strange, is in quaint and charming verse. "Hand me Na 229," by Allan Sullivan, is a spirited bit of dialect poetry, and Philip Lawdeshame's original collection of "Curious Epitaphs," makes exceedingly interesting reading. Altogether the January number of our national review and magazine is one of the most interesting publications of the month. Published by the Ontario Publishing Co., Ltd., Toronto $2.50 per annum.

Capt. Craig accompanied by his eldest son, drove down from Wingard Friday last in order to be present at the banquet in honor of Burn's Anniversary held that evening at the Queen's. We were pleased to see the gallant captain in his accustomed place as usual on affairs of this kind, as his ever ready humor goes a long way in making a success of such entertainments.

The East End Temperance Society held a very successful social on Thursday evening last. The school room was packed, some being unable to gain admittance. The refreshment portion of the programme was hugely enjoyed by about some sixty of the children present, while the other portion was enjoyed by all present. It consisted of speeches, recitations, songs, music, etc. The entertainment was a decided succes, both financially and otherwise.

I have analyzed and tried your Blood Purifier in a large number of cases, with the most salutary results. I am continually prescribing it in my practice. It is invaluable for worms, hide-bound, impoverished blood, and debility, while I know no thing to equal it for general improvement of stock, and enhancing their value.

"Dicks Blood Purifier" is the best of all the condition powders I ever used. It makes a horse thrive and feel well, improves his coat and keeps him perfectly clean in the legs, no matter how long he stands in the stable? I gave half of the first box to a gentleman who had a fine trotting stallion that had swollen in the legs, and had scratches from being out of condition, and in a few days his legs were perfectly clean, and the cracks healed rapidly.

JOHN JOHNSON.

It has been generally understood for some time past that some change was being made in the control of "The Empire" and in Saturday's paper announcement was made that a syndicate of wealthy and influential men had secured a controlling interest, with the intention of taking an active part in its publication and management. The syndicate is composed of W. R. Brock, Esq., of W. R. Brock & Co. President Canadian General Electric Co. Hon. Senator Sanford, President Sanford Manufacturing Co.; Hon. Sir Frank Smith, Vice Pre ident Dominion Bank Thos. Long, Esq., President Great Northern Transit Co.; Col. John I. Davidson, of Davidson & Hay, Vice President Bank of Commerce; Warring Kennedy, Esq., of Sarnia, Kennedy & Co. Lawyers of Toronto; H. Carnill, M.P., Augustus A. F. Gaviller, of Gault Bros., Peterboro; D. Robinson Cotton Mills Co.; D. Morrice, of D. Morrice, Sons & Co. Montreal; R. A. Lucas, of Lucas, Steele & Bristol, Hamilton; Frank J. Phillips, Preston Cabinet Manufacturing Co. and Colonel Duke Gates Co.; James Murray, Esq., St. Catherines; Frank Turner, "E." Toronto; H. J. Scott, Q.C., Toronto; D. Creighton, Publisher Toronto. This is undoubtedly the strongest syndicate ever formed in connection with a paper in Canada. It will be noticed that while all are warm supporters of the Conservative party as a rule, the majority are men closely identified with the business interests of the country, and they announce that, while as heartily as ever supporting the Conservative Government, although in no sense under its control, and having a freer hand in political matters, it is their intention to make "The Empire a business man's as well as a political paper.

TWENTY-FOURTH PAPER.

The dogs were sent to a distant island in the lake where they were kept by an Indian whose employment was to fish for the sole benefit of the dogs. When in the fall the ice became sufficiently strong enough for them to walk upon they were returned to the fort. The dogs of the Hudson' Bay Company were of a good-sized breed. From the Indian cur to the Esquimaux sledge dogs they were of all shapes and sizes. In fact they were a mongrel breed At Beren's River we had about thirty dog which required a good many fish to support. Again if we had more fish than the dogs could eat we had always a crowd of Indian women and children around the post who were ready to snatch up anything in the way of surplus fish that might be lying around. Sometimes the weather was so rough that we could not go out to the nets. In a case like that, instead of our usual grantum of fish diet, we generally took an extra smoke of tobacco and laid down in sweet contentment and moralized upon the uncertainty of all things, especially the weather.

The dogs in the old Hudson's Bay Company times, and as yet put to more use than travelling in trading with Indians. In places where no cattle or horses were kept they did duty in hauling firewood and even hauling logs. I have seen three dogs haul a stick out of the woods which would be quite a load for a couple of oxen. In this way we had to haul our firewood chiefly at Beren's River. We had a cow there I think two or three and a bull. I used to draw wood with the bull, but he was a rather unmanageable beast, and we had not a few quarrels, for he had a custom on the road homewards to run off at full tilt, and very often leave the load of wood scattered here and there by the roadside. The dogs were more tractable and would at all times bring he load home in safety. My chief work, however, at Beren's River was fishing. I liked the business very well only it was very rough work on the lake, sometimes, which was troublesome as well as dangerous, for after a storm we were used to find our nets full of driftwood and rotten sticks which took us some time to clear out. In the fall of the year we used to catch a great many ducks in the nets who in diving after the fish got entangled in the nets.

In the fall of the year when the cold weather set in we took up the nets and waited until the ice set fast and then went to work and set our nets under the ice, which was done in this fashion: As soon as the ice on the lake was strong enough to bear us up we took our dogs and sleighs and went into the woods and got a goodly number of pine boughs which we planted in the ice on the lake about fifty yards apart, which was to guide us in and out to the fishing grounds which we ea'ch had to run out into the lake. Without this precaution we would certainly lose our way in stormy weather when the snow drifted so much that we could hardly see fifty yards ahead of us.

The manner of setting our nets under the ice was by cutting holes in the ice about five or six feet apart and then passing a long pole under the ice to which was attached a line. This pole was then shoved from one hole to another under the ice while the line was drawn under to the length of two nets. After this being done the nets were made fast to the end of the line, while one man took the line on his shoulder and walked along on the ice, while the other man payed out the nets. The middle holes made in the ice which were made to pass the line from one end to the other were not used after this, only the two end holes were opened every day in order to examine the nets and take out the fish. At the main cut where the nets were drawn up and the fish taken out were a number of poles set in a circle in the ice around the hole over which was thrown a leather or buffalo skin tent to protect us from the piercing wind while taking up the nets for this had to be done with the bare hands. When the nets were to be drawn out the holes were opened at both ends, the line made fast to the end of the nets while the other end of the line was made fast to a stick to prevent it slipping into the water and thus losing the chance of getting our nets set again. After the nets were overhauled and the fish taken out, one man went and hauled on the line while the other set the net. We had generally twelve nets in the water, with six sets of holes to attend to. Two of these nets were taken in every day to be washed and mended so that each set got washed and mended once a week.

The ice here generlly set fast about the tenth of November and our fishing season for the winter was from that time until the middle of February. From the middle of February until the break up of the ice in the spring was the season for travelling in looking after the Indians, and seeing what the chances were of a good season for furs, for this was the main object for which we were there.

Fishing in winter was rather a slavish occupation; On account of the great distance we had to go we had to get up about four o'clock in the morning and mend our nets during which time the kettle was on the fire with a whitefish for each which was cooked during the time we mended our nets. As soon as we had hurriedly finished our meal we hitched up the dogs and started out. No matter what the weather was we had to face the storm. On some occasions it was an utter impossibility to reach our destination, one way or another, without freezing some part of our hands or face. The least exposure of ears nose or hands rendered them liable to be nipped by the frost. At times our faces would be striped like the skin of a zebra with places where the frost had caught hold of us. My ears and nose generally suffered the most, but I have got some severe bites on the hands too. The frost is so insidious that one very often gets bitten without knowing it. It is not generally the place that feels cold that is most liable to be caught but the place where you do not feel it at all. The severest nip I ever got was one day when working late handed taking the nets out of the water, when the thick fleshy part of my left hand became as solid as a lump of ice, which I did not get properly thawed out until I returned home in the evening. It resembled a severe burn and did not get properly healed up until spring. It was quite late every day when we got home from our fishing grounds, so much so that our first duty was to pack away our fish we brought home, into snow, in the storehouse.

The Manitoba Free Press in speaking of the Uxbridge Piano says: They are genuine works of art, and reflect the highest credit upon the firm which has produced them. The old style of upright pianos is thrown into the shade. The Uxbridge Piano has a continuous look rack which will be appreciated in the playing of duets; sitting down to the piano the performer touches a lever and the keyboard is uncovered, and the hinges of the lid turn out of sight, and the instrument presents the same artistic appearance when open as when shut. The Organ manufactured by the Uxbridge company have been in use for over twenty years, and require no special description as they are so well-known and liked in the homes of the thousands over the whole world However, the company is manufacturing a six Oct. Organ in Piano case which is having a wonderful sale. The Pianos made by the Uxbridge Piano Co. are awarded Canadian exhibitions, being equal in tone, durability and finish to the best American.

For fifty years the Weekly Globe of Toronto has had an enviable reputation as the one great Liberal weekly of the Dominion. It has always been a high class journal, and a welcome visitor in thousands of homes. The Globe's enterprise is proverbial. Its correspondents have traversed and written up almost every section of the country. All great events have been fully reported. The speeches of leading politicians, whether on the floor of Parliament or on the stump have been presented as they were uttered, and all fairly treated, whether Liberal, Conservative or Patron. The Globe is the only weekly paper in Canada that gives full and fair reports of Parliamentary proceedings, great church meetings and other similar occurances of national and provincial interest. Among leading features of recent numbers may be mentioned speeches by Sir John Thompson, Mr. Laurier, Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Marter, Mr Haycock, members of the Ontario Cabinet, and others; letters from members of the Globe's editorial staff have travelled through the provinces of Quebec and over the route of the Trent valley Canal, interviews and letters on that most important question, the return of the law system, long reports from the scene of the Jessie Keith murder, the Mowat-Wiarrel trial and other sensational events. The aim of the Globe is to be trustworthy. The Globe has the best cable and telegraphic service obtainable; its foreign, Canadian and American dispatch are unexcelled, and every week the whole world is brought under review. The agricultural department is right up to the times; the crop and market reports are full and reliable. Reasonable space is given up each week to lighter reading and good stories is one of the Globe's attractions. Another popular feature is the weekly contributions from the Khan's poetical pen. As a family newspaper the Globe is unrivalled.

A BIG DOLLARS WORTH.

The Winnipeg Daily Tribune, which is acknowledged to have—even by rival publishers—the largest circulation of any paper published in Canada west of Lake Superior, is now offering great inducements to intending subscribers. It can be obtained from now to January 1st, 1896, for $1—a very slight advance on the cost of the white paper used in its publication. At its regular price of $1 a year the Weekly Tribune is certainly extra value, and with the balance of this year free the offer becomes an extraordinary one. The fact that the Weekly Tribune reaches more homes than any paper published, is strong evidence that it is recognized as the great family newspaper. It publishes Dr. Talmages sermon each week, and gives more Manitoba and Northwest news than all the other Winnipeg papers put together. This is is specially interesting to the settler, as almost every district is represented. It can be had from now to the end of the year by sending $1 to the Tribune publishing Co., Winnipeg.
